Globe Police Department mourns death of Officer Schell

On Friday, May 27, the Globe Police Department and Globe Fire Department escorted Schell's casket in a motorcade starting in Mesa, Ariz. and ending in Globe.

A procession from Miles Damron Funeral Home, located in Globe, proceeding to Mountain View Cemetery, in Mesa, will begin at 8:30 a.m. on Wednesday, June 1, 2011.

In lieu of flowers, the family is requesting donations be made to the 100 Club. Donations can be given at the Globe Police Department.

A memorial has been placed outside the Globe Police Department in memory of Matt Schell.

Globe Memorial solemn with a bit of surprise

For seven months he lay with no expectation that he would live much less recover. "I didn't know nothing about it," he said. "The good Lord wouldn't let me in and the devil said, 'Hell, no.'"

"I was an explosives engineer and the war was on yet when I got out of the hospital," Miller said.

"When I was being discharged, they told me, 'Rocky, we need you at Caribou Hill. You don't need to work. We just need your know-how.'"

That began a life long on-call relationship with the United States government. Even after being discharged from the service, he continued to receive calls to help with explosives. "In the 50's and 60's they called me 10 or 12 times a year," he said. "They shipped me all over. So far this year, they've only called me once," he said.

Although he doesn't drive, Miller carries his license as proof of his age. His birth date is listed as March 4, 1913.

"In less than two years, I'll make it to 100," he said. A great life for someone who was killed in action in the early years of World War II.

Miami remembers

"These small towns are the backbones of our country...They're what our velcrass fought for and what they died for."

Castaneda went on to read the presidential proclamation.

As the sound of Taps played in the background, the mayor and Miami's son and hero, Joe Paul Carbajal, joined hands and honored the fallen veterans with a wreath encircling a photograph of New York's twin towers.

Truth in taxation hearing Notice of tax increase

In compliance with section 15-1461.01, Arizona Revised Statutes, Gila County Community College District is notifying its property taxpayers of Gila County Community College District's intention to raise its primary property taxes over last year's level. The Gila County Community College District is proposing an increase in primary property taxes of $69,236 or 2%.
